Viktor Frankl was born in Vienna in 1905 into a Jewish family. He studied medicine and later became a neurologist and psychiatrist. In his early formative years he was in close contact with Sigmund Freud and Alfred Adler, but later diverged from Freud's psychoanalysis and Adler's individual psychology.

Besides the Bible? Man's Search for Meaning - Donald Miller

Frankl survived the camps, including Auschwitz, and in the most dire of human circumstances realized a personality theory involving man's need for meaning a theory that would contend with Sigmund Freud, who was alive at the time and positing that man's primary desire was not for meaning but for pleasure.
